

Notice of Representation

Members of the public (where they can be considered to be interested parties) can submit representations in objection to or in support of these applications, within the 28 day consultation period. The Licensing Act 2003 defines an interested party as a person residing in the vicinity of the premises concerned, a person involved in the running of a business within the vicinity, or a body representing such persons or businesses. Elected Members of the licensing authority are also considered to be interested parties and may also submit representations.

Please be aware that for any objections to be considered, they should be submitted before the end of the consultation period and they should address the four licensing objectives of Prevention of crime and disorder, Prevention of public nuisance, Public safety and the Protection of children from harm.

Please be aware that where representations are considered relevant copies of the representation will be provided to the applicant and the Licensing Sub Committee.

Please note: Objections will only be considered where a name and address are supplied.

An alcohol license will provide choice and convenience for the residents of Riding Mill. There is no alternative shop in the village.

I wish to support local entrepreneurs in their endeavours to provide a valuable service for residents.

Without services, events, and attempts to offer something different, the village risks turning into a sprawling retirement home, with no incentive for newcomers to move and support the existing school, and business.

My understanding is that the village has historically had several licensed businesses operating at the same time, yet managed to avoid becoming a hotbed of crime and antisocial behaviour.

I have no concerns relating to crime and disorder and recognize that any late openings are likely to be rare and related to private parties. We are aware that the café is run by 2 mature residents, and we trust them to run their business sensibly and keeping in tone with the needs of other residents.
